COIL (Collaborative Online International Learning) courses

Social Work

Interdisciplinary courses
About

Since 2002, a global consortium of Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) has developed high quality online courses and virtual learning material in the field of Social Work.

Study methods | COIL

All courses are Collaborative Online International Learning courses. Students work together in a virtual classroom.

Professors from different partner institutions work together. They share syllabi (screen lectures, triggers, literature, assignments,...). Through Vir-Camp our staff expands their professional horizons. They form a more globalised, complex understanding of their discipline.

Students engage in collaborative activities. This contributes to their international professional competences (internationalisation@home). The study methods are task-centred and solution oriented, based on virtual cases. International comparison is an important element. Open feedback, collaboration as well as reflection lie at the basis of our pedagogy.

Through online conferences, theme discussions and group work students and professors share experiences and learn from each other.

E-PEDAGOGY FOR TEACHERS IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Being an e-teacher demands specific skills and competences in pedagogy related to coaching students on the internet.

Knowledge of how to make an inspiring learning environment is crucial. This course promotes and strengthens the participants’ skills in teaching, supervising, planning and organising good e-learning courses in a Virtual Learning Environment (VLE).

In autumn 2019 the consortium organises the next E-Ped course. This course allows new teachers to join the Vir-Camp teaching team. This course is open to interested candidates from other disciplines and HEIs.
